Introduction

OCOS UK, as an innovative company developing digital tokens on a global scale, has implemented a comprehensive legal compliance strategy to ensure full adherence to regulatory frameworks. The company aims to provide a secure digital ecosystem for its investors and users by fulfilling its legal obligations in every country where it operates.

Regulatory Framework

OCOS UK works closely with regulatory bodies in each jurisdiction to ensure full compliance with the legal frameworks in place. This includes:

- United States: OCOS UK adheres to the regulations of the SEC (Securities and Exchange Commission) in the U.S., fully complying with the issuance and trading processes for tokens classified as securities.
- European Union: In Europe, OCOS UK complies with the directives established by the ESMA (European Securities and Markets Authority) and relevant national regulatory bodies.
- Other Countries: In other countries where the company operates, local regulations have been carefully analyzed, and compliance processes have been structured accordingly. Special attention is given to regions like Asia-Pacific and the Middle East, considering their specific regulatory requirements.

Token Classification and Compliance

OCOS UK's digital token has been classified as a utility token according to international regulatory standards, meaning it is not considered a security and is used for access to certain products or services. This classification is aligned with the reviews and audits conducted by local regulatory bodies. The company handles security tokens with a high degree of care, adhering strictly to regulatory requirements.

AML & KYC Compliance

OCOS UK diligently implements AML (Anti-Money Laundering) and KYC (Know Your Customer) procedures, ensuring:

- Stringent user identity verification processes, designed to prevent money laundering and terrorist financing, with sensitive user data securely stored.
- Regular audits and reporting to minimize risks, in line with global best practices.

Data Privacy and Security

OCOS UK places significant emphasis on the protection of its users' personal data. As part of its commitment to privacy:

- The company fully complies with GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation) in the European Union and other applicable data protection laws globally.
- User data collection, processing, and storage are carried out with the highest security protocols, using encryption and firewall technologies to prevent data breaches.

Taxation & Financial Reporting Compliance

OCOS UK's revenues and token transactions are reported in compliance with applicable tax laws in each jurisdiction. The company has sought expert advisory services to ensure that revenue from token sales is taxed appropriately and operates in full accordance with the legal frameworks of the countries it serves.

Smart Contract Auditing

OCOS UK's digital token has been classified as a utility token according to international regulatory standards, meaning it is not considered a security and is used for access to certain products or services. This classification is aligned with the reviews and audits conducted by local regulatory bodies. The company handles security tokens with a high degree of care, adhering strictly to regulatory requirements.

Intellectual Property Protection

OCOS UK has filed all necessary patents and trademarks to protect its intellectual property, including its brand and software products. The company's intellectual property assets are safeguarded both nationally and internationally.

Legal Advisory and Continuous Monitoring

OCOS UK receives regular legal advisory services to maintain compliance across all jurisdictions. The company continuously monitors changes in legal regulations globally and updates its operations accordingly to ensure ongoing compliance.
